

Semiotics and participation seminar 11-12 February 2025

The aim of these study days will be to bring semiotics (understood as an approach either between the language sciences or between the information and communication sciences, or even as an inter- or transdisciplinary approach) into dialogue with various participatory research practices. It is also an opportunity to question the civic role (Klinkenberg, 2012) and the role of semioticians as collective actors (Fontanille, 2021).

<https://semioetparti.sciencesconf.org/>