

TRIP's Multiplier Events: Two end-of-IVSC events on the Virtual World

As part of the TRIP project and its Intercultural Virtual Societal Challenge (IVSC), Université Rennes 2 is organising two bilingual online events in 2024, enabling participants from various backgrounds - members of the consortium and associated partners - to collaborate and exchange ideas on project-based learning and internationalisation at home (I@H).

9 april 2024 : a first interactive edition

The event on 9 April marks the close of the spring edition of the IVSC, bringing together 118 connections, including more than 60 external participants, notably from Slovakia and Spain. The programme includes:

- An introduction to the TRIP project and the Workadventure platform, with an ice-breaker activity on the benefits of project-based learning.
- A screening of the videos produced during the edition (to be found on the TRIP YouTube channel), followed by a question-and-answer session and exchanges via an interactive Digipad.
- A presentation of the PR1 and PR2 results of the TRIP project, focusing on the associated continuing education course. The event ended with the announcement of the winning teams and a reflection on the participants' immersive experience.

A continuity

The event on 27 November follows on from the one in April. The event was structured along the same lines as the first, with a few variations:

- An introduction to the TRIP project and Workadventure.
- A screening of videos from the English edition of the IVSC, covering a range of themes including the environment, race, gender and inclusion.
- A concluding session, including an evaluation questionnaire via Wooclap to gather feedback from participants.

These two meetings illustrate the value of intercultural collaboration and project-based learning, strengthening the commitment of students and partners to an innovative approach to internationalisation.
