

The À tradire. Didactique de la traduction pragmatique et de la communication technique journal publishes academic articles and other contributions on the didactics of pragmatic translation and technical communication. Its primary focus is therefore on the education and training of language service professionals. It aims to become a forum for any stakeholders in this teaching and learning process.